Coronavirus

What is COVID-19?

COVID-19 is a new illness that can affect your lungs and airways. It's caused by a family of viruses, known as coronavirus.

How does it spread?

It's spread in a similar way to colds and the flu. This can be via droplets from coughs and sneezes, and by touching or shaking hands.

Anyone infected can pass it on to any surface or person they breathe on or touch.

Symptoms

- A dry cough
- A high temperature (fever)
- Shortness of breath

Preventative measures

Wash hands regularly with soap.

Aim to wash them for 20 seconds, getting a good lather. Pay attention to the tips of your fingers and the gaps in between.

If soap and water aren't available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitiser.

Avoid unnecessarily close contact with others, particularly people who are sick.

Use alternative greetings to shaking hands or kissing on the cheek.

What to do if you are worried

Use reputable information sources – If in doubt, get the latest information from:

- World Health Organisation (WHO)
- NHS
- GOV.UK

Seek medical advice early – If you think you have symptoms, do not go to your GP or hospital – instead, call the NHS 111 phone service.

Information for parents, carers and professionals

We are all adapting to a new way of life due to Covid-19, and this is a very challenging and emotional time for families. As parents and carers, and those ensuring the welfare of children, it is important that we help children find positive ways to express their feelings. Below are some things that you can do to support children and young people during this time.

Every child has their own way to express emotions: Engaging in a creative activity, such as playing, and drawing can facilitate this process. Children feel relieved if they can express and communicate how they feel in a safe and supportive environment. This will help them to recognise and manage feelings, such as, sadness or anxiety, and know that it is okay to share these feelings.

Keep children close to parents, carers and family members: If considered safe for the child, avoid separating children from a parent/carer as much as possible. If a child needs to be isolated from a parent, during periods of separation, ensure regular contact with the parent/carer is maintained as much as possible, such as twice-daily scheduled phone or video calls or other age-appropriate communication (e.g., social media depending on the age of the child).

Maintain familiar routines in daily life as much as possible, or create new routines if children must stay at home: Provide engaging age appropriate activities for children, including activities for their learning. As much as possible, encourage children to continue to play and socialize with others, even if only within the family when advised to restrict social contact.

During times of stress and crisis, it is common for children to seek more attachment and be more demanding on parents and carers: Discuss COVID-19 with your children using honest and age appropriate way. If your children have concerns, addressing those together may ease their anxiety. Children will observe adults' behaviours and emotions for cues on how to manage their own emotions during difficult times so try to remain calm in front of your children. See the next page for additional advice.

Helping children cope with stress during the 2019-nCoV outbreak

Children may respond to stress in different ways such as being more clingy, anxious, withdrawing, angry or agitated, bedwetting etc.

Respond to your child's reactions in a supportive way, listen to their concerns and give them extra love and attention.

Children need adults' love and attention during difficult times. Give them extra time and attention.

Remember to listen to your children, speak kindly and reassure them.

If possible, make opportunities for the child to play and relax.

Try and keep children close to their parents and family and avoid separating children and their caregivers to the extent possible. If separation occurs (e.g. hospitalization) ensure regular contact (e.g. via phone) and re-assurance.

Keep to regular routines and schedules as much as possible, or help create new ones in a new environment, including school/learning as well as time for safely playing and relaxing.

Provide facts about what has happened, explain what is going on now and give them clear information about how to reduce their risk of being infected by the disease in words that they can understand depending on their age.

This also includes providing information about what could happen in a re-assuring way (e.g. a family member and/or the child may start not feeling well and may have to go to the hospital for some time so doctors can help them feel better).
